Title: Philippines says China is 'hindering' its companies from exploring natural resources in the contested South China Sea

Publisher / Date Published: Business Insider / February 19, 2025

Reports on statements made by Philippine Foreign Secretary Enrique Manalo during a talk at Chatham House in London. Manalo asserted that China's activities in the South China Sea are obstructing Filipino companies from developing natural resources, particularly in oil exploration. He highlighted that China's interference has posed significant challenges for the Philippines in pursuing resource development in the region.

The South China Sea is a vital shipping route rich in oil and gas reserves, making it a focal point for territorial disputes. Tensions between Manila and Beijing have escalated in recent years, with incidents involving confrontations between Filipino and Chinese forces, as well as aggressive actions by the Chinese coastguard. Despite a 2016 international tribunal ruling that rejected China's extensive claims in the South China Sea, China continues to assert its influence in the area. The United States and the Philippines maintain a strong alliance under the 1951 Mutual Defense Treaty, with ongoing discussions aimed at enhancing cooperation.
